LETTER BOXES IN BRIGHT NEW PAINT.

All Have Received New Coats of Green Furnished by Department.

All the street letter and package boxes have received a nice fresh coat of green paint, which is furnished by the postoffice department, so that all in the country will be uniform. As soon as possible Postmaster Murphy intends placing time cards in all boxes, but as the department has discontinued furnishing printed cards, these will not be renewed. The department claims that train schedules change so often no more cards will be printed by them, and that patrons in the residential sections know the time of the carriers' arrival. In the business section boxes are collected by the carriers that pass them and independent collections by carriers while on their regular routes, which makes at least an hourly collection from 8 a. m. until 8 p. m., which is the time of the last collection in the center of the city. All collections are scheduled for outgoing mail. The Sunday collections are made commencing at the Norwich Town branch and the Greenville station at 3.30 p. m., the boxes in the business section being collected at 5 p. m.

WAR GAME HALTED BY DENSE FOG

Battle Fleet Remained Anchored at Fort Wright.

A curtain of fog so dense that it necessitated temporary discontinuance of the transport service to Fort Terry caused postponement of the army and navy maneuvers at the New London artillery district Friday. The hostile fleet which was expected to demonstrate the impregnability of the reverse of the coast defenses at the entrance to Long Island sound, lay peacefully at anchor off the Fort Wright dock taking no chances on the perils of the shrouded deep. When the fog lifted the fleet of destroyers, mine planters and submarine chasers, constituting the "enemy" ships, will put out to sea and subsequently a surprise attack will be looked for. More than 1,500 coast artillerymen are encamped at the batteries of the island forts awaiting the first onslaught of the naval force in its effort to run the gauntlet of the sound entrance.

WILLIAM A. YOUNG MAKES GOOD

Confessed Drug User Convinces Court—Attended Typhoid Patient While in Jail—Judge Steele Gives Him a Chance and Puts Him on Probation.

William A. Young, 23, a professional nurse, who was formerly a resident here and was employed at the Norwich State hospital, told the police court in Hartford on Friday such an impressive story of his struggle against the drug habit and was so well backed up by the authorities in the New Haven where he has been serving a sentence of six months on the ground that the night had on him that Judge Steele placed Young on probation without restrictions.

What won for Mr. Young in the police court was the substantiated story that he was able to tell of his service as a nurse in the New Haven jail during a typhoid epidemic. He was before the Hartford court on the charge of forgetting doctors' names to prescriptions for narcotic drugs.

Nursed Typhoid Patient in Jail. It was while he was in the jail at New Haven that the miracle, as the jail authorities call it, happened. At that time the jail was crowded with inmates. Deprived of the drug he became almost insane at times, and it was necessary for the jail physician to prescribe narcotics to keep him quiet. Not much hope was held out for Young. Few cures are permanent when the drug has a hold such as this. But a typhoid epidemic broke out. This is one of the diseases in the cure of which medicine is little and nursing much and the nursing is wearing work.

Volunteered to Nurse. Young had been thinking that if he had some suitable occupation he would be better off. When he learned of the epidemic he volunteered his services, knowing full well the nature of the work and with no promise of reward or favor. The jail authorities were not at all satisfied, but as Young demonstrated his fitness he was welcomed. His services are said to have been invaluable. When his case was ready to come up in court there were plenty to say in word for him and it was noted by the state. By this time Young had been six weeks without the drug and was encouraged in his own right to say that at the jail. He was released in court and free to go where he wished. Without a hour's delay he made his way back to the jail and offered Sheriff Huggs his services free of charge. Asked how he felt, he said: "Gratitude for what they had done for me."

After two weeks of this service the Hartford police sent word to New Haven that they had charged against Young and asked for his arrest on his previous record. These were nothing for the New Haven authorities to do, except to turn Young over to be taken to Hartford for trial for forgetting prescriptions to narcotic drugs.

Sheriff His Friend. Sheriff Huggs did the utmost in his power to help him. Early Friday morning he telephoned Judge Steele, briefly stating the facts and his opinion that Young "had made good." He said: "I am sure he is a good man, and he looked it. His case was good and his body appeared robust."

Judge Steele asked him where he would go if released and he said back to the jail at first. There is a patient there in a critical condition, he said, "and I think I can do something for him."

Judge Steele thought he ought to get word of his work and asked a court officer to telephone Sheriff Huggs to see if a remunerative position could not be found for Young. By this time the case was satisfactory, for he later placed Young on probation without any restrictions.

WHEELER LIBRARY HAS ITS LARGEST YEAR.

North Stonington Circulation Has Been 6,006 Books—Library Needs.

A circulation that reached a total of 6,006 books and was greater than that of any other year in reported for the Wheeler school library by the librarian, Edna E. Brown, at the annual report, which is for the year that ended Oct. 1. Of these, 3,351 were fiction and 2,655 non-fiction.

During the year the library has received 69 books were sent to Clark's Falls, and books were also sent to the school at North Stonington. With 25 volumes the circulation was 79. It is the hope that next year with the co-operation of the school supervisor Swift books may be placed in all the grade schools.

The librarian calls attention to the fact that 1,500 books were read by children and adults at a reading table with smaller chairs in a necessity in the library. It would cost, with chairs, about $200. She speaks of the need of a card catalogue of the 6,000 books in the library and offers to assist a trained cataloguer if one could be secured for a few weeks to do this work.

During the year 108 borrowers have been registered and in all 888 different people have borrowed books. People to the number of 100 have used the magazines at the tables. The circulation of magazines for home reading has been 1,014. Continued interest in a library cannot be maintained unless new books are frequently added. During the year our purchases have amounted to 125 books. The crowded condition of our shelves bears witness to the fact that we have outgrown our shelf room. It is our urgent request that this matter be given attention and that if possible more shelving be provided at an early date. The usefulness, efficiency and good appearance of a library depend upon the careful and orderly arrangement of the books upon the shelves. This is impossible where shelves are overcrowded.

WILL PLEAD GUILTY.

Rev. Richard H. Keep Regrets Annoying Young Girls.

The Rev. Richard H. Keep, formerly of this city who was arrested Tuesday in Brooklyn, N. Y., when accused of disorderly conduct in a Brooklyn car by Florence Lennox, a student in the Erasmus Hall high school, and released in $500 bail for a hearing on October 26, following his plea of not guilty to the Butler street court, Brooklyn, announced Thursday that he would change his plea to one of guilty when he next appeared in court. The clergyman said in regard to the annoyance he had caused the schoolgirls, and that he was ready and willing to make all the reparation possible for a "wrong to an innocent youth."

Sergeant M. H. H. of the National Detective agency at 21 Park Row and investigator for the Theatre Protective association has known Mr. Keep for a year. Their acquaintance resulted from an investigation he made concerning complaints of a man annoying young girls in a Manhattan theatre and two Brooklyn theatres. He said he found that Mr. Keep had annoyed a girl in one of the theatres. After learning that he was a clergyman it was decided not to prosecute him, H. said, providing he promised not to cause a similar complaint again and agreed to stay away from the theatres. H. said the agreement with a voluntary "honorary parole."

Nervous Strain Tells an Attorney. Attorney Telfer E. Babcock, who has been one of the attorneys in the Lennox case that has been on trial during the past two weeks in the superior court, has suffered a nervous condition as a result of the hard work and the nervous strain which the case has imposed upon him.

Old Yantic Resident Has Shock. Martin Burns, about 30 years old and an old time resident of Yantic, is seriously ill in the Yantic hospital. He has had a shock and was taken to the hospital on Tuesday.

Case Withdrawn. The case which was filed in the superior court by Receiver A. A. Browning of the Thames Loan and Trust Co., against Rev. R. Potter has been withdrawn by the receiver.

BUING B. F. MAHAN FOR SEWER PAYMENT.

E. J. Sauter Brings Case to Common Pleas Court.

A civil action returnable before the court of common pleas the first Tuesday in November has been brought by Englebert J. Sauter against former Mayor B. F. Mahan of New London, the plaintiff as a taxpayer and defendant of New London requesting the court to compel Mr. Mahan to pay sewer dues on his property.

The action is the outcome of the board of water and sewer commissioners voting to collect sewer dues from the amount named and levied against Mahan's property located on Elm street. Mr. Sauter alleges that the act of the board was entirely illegal. Papers were served on Mr. Mahan and City Clerk Adams Thursday evening by Sheriff J. H. Tuttle.

The basis of the action is that the sewer board placed the assessments against the property and, when they were not paid, liens were made. Mr. Mahan, it is claimed, appeared before the board and requested that the liens be released and said he would make payments of amounts levied against the property within a short time. Some time later, and notwithstanding that the liens had never been paid, the board passed a vote authorizing the release of the liens. The case was argued by Mr. Mahan and City Clerk Adams Thursday evening by Sheriff J. H. Tuttle.

CASES REASSIGNED.

Civil Suits Will Be Tried at New London in Superior Court.

Court cases for trial in New London were reassigned by Judge William H. Williams here on Friday. The prolongation of the criminal superior court through this week made it necessary to reassign the civil cases as the first of them had been assigned for last Thursday. Judge Milton A. Shumway is to preside at the September 26 session in New London. The following are the assignments made for trial there:

Tuesday, October 19th—Foreman vs. Foreman, et al.; Atwood vs. Chapman vs. Chapman.

Wednesday, October 20th—Underhill vs. Connecticut Co.; Spink vs. Avery; Gove vs. May.

Thursday, October 21st—Donahue vs. Connecticut Co.; Lillie vs. Lillie; Cook, et al. vs. Park.

Friday, October 22nd—Short calendar, bar meeting and assignment of cases.

A New Haven lawyer who attended the short calendar session on Friday made a strong plea to have the case of the New Haven R. R. Co. vs. Benjamin J. Armstrong and others assigned. The case has been partly tried before Judge Shumway and he has said he would have to read over the evidence. It would take ten hours to write the evidence, the court reporter said. Attorney H. A. Hull, it was stated by the court, desired a rest, and the case went off with the understanding that Judge Shumway would consult with Judge Bradford of New Haven as to when they can find time to try the case.

Another case in which an effort was made for assignment for trial was that of Hensle A. Heath vs. Charles H. Heath and others. It is claimed that Mrs. Heath has become mentally unbalanced and is a town charge. The case went off the list.
